What role has private giving played, and will play, in the success of Yale-NUS? The College has been fortunate to have a number of programmes established due to the generosity of individuals, foundations and corporations representing the Yale-NUS community. This has given us the opportunity to start programmes that have a direct impact on curriculum development, attracting talented faculty, as well as providing scholarships and study awards to ensure that no deserving students are denied an education at Yale-NUS because of financial difficulties.

Philanthropy will play an important role in the future of Yale-NUS and of our students. It will allow us to continue to develop and deliver impactful programmes for our students especially when we reach a steady state of 1,000 students.

What are your fundraising priorities and why? Yale-NUS is focused on raising funds for a number of priorities including academic and student support, teaching excellence as well as educational programmes. These broad areas enable the College to provide support for students, support professorships and fellowships as well as educational programmes that prepare leaders of tomorrow with a global outlook and an appreciation for diversity and the ability to communicate and lead effectively.

Philanthropy will play an important role in the success of Yale-NUS and of our students. It will allow us to continue to develop and deliver impactful programmes for our students especially when we reach a steady state of 1,000 students.

"Philanthropy will play an important role in the success of Yale-NUS and of our students. It will allow us to continue to develop and deliver impactful programmes for our students especially when we reach a steady state of 1,000 students."